HOW BAD IS SLEEPING WITH MAKEUP ON??

Recent studies have shown that going to bed with your makeup still on can age your skin seven times faster than if you remove it. Most makeup contains artificial colours and other ingredients that may clog the pores, cause damaging chemical reactions in the skin, and even interfere with hormones. This can result in congested skin and allergies, and of course contribute to skin aging, irritation and dull-looking skin, so it really is best to thoroughly remove your makeup before bed. During the sleeping hours is when much of the body's cellular repair and rejuvenation happens. As such, this is an optimal time to cleanse to remove the toxins from the day and add nourishing, repairing, and hydrating ingredients to the skin. Cleansing and applying peptides, vitamin A, and penetrating moisturizers will make a tremendous difference in the aging process on the skin.
