NEW MAGNESIUM PRODUCTS ALERT!

What is magnesium?

Magnesium is one of the most important minerals in the human body. It is an essential cofactor for more than 300 chemical reactions, including those relating to heart health, vascular tone, nerve function and muscle contraction and relaxation. Magnesium is also necessary for tooth and bone formation, protein synthesis and cell division. In addition magnesium contributes to normal energy metabolism, healthy psychological function, reducing tiredness and fatigue; and in children magnesium contributes to normal growth and development.

Magnesium deficiency is increasingly being implicated in a large number of health conditions with much research ongoing. One of the ways we've traditionally consumed magnesium is through our diet, however, due to soil depletion from modern farming practices, minerals have been stripped from the soil.

Magnesium in tablet or liquid form has been a common supplement for years to help improve levels and absorption. However, evolving research is showing that Magnesium delivered orally can be compromised by our digestive systems and limit the amount of active magnesium being absorbed and delivered where the body needs it most. The absorption and bio-availability has been measured to be greater when applied topically or transdermally via the skin, can help to improve your magnesium levels and reduce the ailments that are common with magnesium deficiencies.
