PREGNANCY & YOUR SKIN 101

When it comes to skincare during pregnancy, it's crucial to be mindful of certain ingredients. Here are some common ingredients to AVOID:

Retinoids - Retin-A, Retinol, Retinyl Palmitate
Salicylic Acid
Hydroquinone
Hydrogen Peroxide
Formaldehyde
Some Essential Oils - Sage, Rosemary, Juniper Berry

Ingredients to INCLUDE whilst pregnant:
Vitamin C
Tyrosinase Inhibitors
Antioxidants
Peptides

COMMON SKIN CONDITIONS CAUSED BY PREGNANCY

Pregnancy can bring about various changes in the body & some women may experience skin conditions they haven't before as a result of hormone fluctuations & other physiological shifts. Some common skin conditions associated with pregnancy include:

Melasma & Pigmentation - characterised by dark patches of the face, especially on the forehead, cheeks & upper lip. Hormonal changes during pregnancy can trigger an increase in pigmentation.

HOT TIP - Use a Tyrosinase Inhibitor or Vitamin C product to reduce stop the over production of pigmentation & lighten existing patches

Acne & Breakouts - Hormonal fluctuations may lead to increased oil production resulting in acne & breakouts. However some women may also experience clearer skin during pregnancy.

Eczema - Existing eczema may improve or worsen during pregnancy as hormonal changes & increased stress levels can contribute to flare-ups.

Spider Angiomas - Elevated, spider-like blood vessels may appear on the face, neck or arms due to increased blood circulation during pregnancy.

Skin Tags - Small benign growths of skin may appear in areas where skin rubs together, such as the neck, underarms or groin.

Stretch Marks - Rapid stretching of the skin, often in the abdomen & breasts, can lead to the development of stretch marks. These pink or red streaks may fade over time but can persist. HOT TIP - DMK's Maximum Moisture is great to use during pregnancy to prevent stretch marks.
